MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR (1) AN AWARD OF ATTORNEYS' FEES AND EXPENSES AND
(2) AN INCENTIVE AWARD TO THE NAMED PLAINTIFF

INTRODUCTION

Pursuant to M.G.L. c. 93A § 9(4) and the Settlement Agreement, Plaintiff Philip Landry (“Plaintiff” or “Class Representative”) and Class Counsel respectfully move this Court for an Order awarding attorneys’ fees of $521,240.00 (one-third of the $1,563,720.00 Settlement Fund), costs and expenses of $24,767.71 and for an incentive award to the Class Representative in the amount of $10,000.00.

Plaintiff and Class Counsel have vigorously litigated this Chapter 93A consumer protection act case against Defendant Transworld Systems, Inc. (“Transworld” or “Defendant”) and obtained an outstanding result for the class: a total fund of $1,563,720.00 to be distributed directly, after deductions for costs and awards, to those class members who submit valid claims. Not a penny of the fund reverts to Transworld. But for the efforts of Class Counsel and the Plaintiff, the class would receive nothing, and the alleged violations of Massachusetts law would go unremedied.

On January 19, 2023, the Court granted preliminary approval to the Parties’ class action settlement agreement and scheduled the Final Approval Hearing for May 30, 2023.

Because of the efforts of Class Counsel and the Class Representative, the Settlement Class Members can participate in this excellent result and recover a very significant amount in settlement owing to allegedly unlawful debt collection calls. Under the circumstances of this case, an award of $546,007.71 in fees and costs is abundantly reasonable because:

- This is an excellent settlement to the Class, providing substantial benefits to the Class, particularly in light of the available damages and the risks of further litigation;
- No portion of the fund will revert to the Defendant; all funds will go to the claimants, to cover fees or costs, or to an appropriate cy pres recipient approved by the Court; and
- This was a heavily litigated case with extensive discovery and motion practice including proceedings before the Supreme Judicial Court where Plaintiff succeeded. The settlement would not have been possible but for these efforts.

For the reasons stated herein, Class Counsel and Plaintiff respectfully request that the Court approve the incentive and attorneys' fees and expenses awards.

ARGUMENT

I. CLASS COUNSEL ARE ENTITLED TO AN AWARD OF ATTORNEYS' FEES AND EXPENSES FOR THEIR SERVICE TO THE CLASS

Where a party maintains a suit that results in the creation of a fund for the benefit of a class, the costs of the litigation, including an award of reasonable attorneys' fees, should be recovered from the fund created by the litigation. Boeing Co. v. Van Gemert, 444 U.S. 472, 478 (1980); Mills v. Elec. Auto-Lite Co., 396 U.S. 375, 392 (1970). Moreover, Chapter 93A explicitly provides for an award of attorneys' fees and costs. See M.G.L. c. 93A § 9(4).

To determine a reasonable attorney's fee award in a common fund class action, Massachusetts courts often use the lodestar method. See In re AMICAS, Inc. S'holder Litig., 10-174-BLS2, 2010 WL 5557444, at *3 (Mass. Super. Dec. 6, 2010). In fashioning a fee award, the lodestar method takes into consideration much more than the total hours worked and counsel's hourly rate; rather, courts consider the following qualitative factors: “(1) the nature of the case and the issues presented, (2) the time and labor required, (3) the amount of damages involved, (4) the result obtained, (5) the experience, reputation, and ability of the attorneys, (6) the usual price charged for similar services by other attorneys in the same area, and (7) the amount of awards in similar cases.” Id.

Notably, “[b]ecause the result obtained is one factor to be considered in determining a reasonable fee [under the lodestar method], even under the lodestar method the Court may take into consideration the amount of the fund and its relation to the amount of the requested fee.” In re AMICAS, Inc., 2010 WL 5557444, at *3-4 (emphasis supplied). In addition, in statutory fee award cases, such as this one, fee awards are often enhanced to compensate for the risk of litigation. See id. (citing Fontaine v. Ebttec Corp., 415 Mass. 309, 324, 613 N.E.2d 881, 891 (1993)).

“The majority of courts, whether state or federal,” however, “utilize the percentage method where a common fund is involved, using the lodestar approach, if at all, as a ‘cross check.’” Commonwealth Care All. v. Astrazeneca Pharm. L.P., 2013 WL 6268236, at *2 & n.3 (Mass. Super. Aug. 5, 2013) (quoting Fitzpatrick, An Empirical Study of Class Actions Settlements and their Fee Awards, 7 J. EMPIRICAL LEGAL STUD., 811, 820 (2010)); see, e.g., Roberts v. TJX Companies, Inc., 2016 WL 8677312, at *11 (D. Mass. Sept. 30, 2016) (Burroughs, J.) (approving 1/3 of the fund with lodestar cross-check); In re Relafen Antitrust Litig., 231 F.R.D. 52, 85–89 (D. Mass. 2005) (approving 33 1/3% fee as a percentage of the fund); In re Am. Dental Partners, Inc. Sec. Litig., 2010 WL 1427404, at *1 (D. Mass. Apr. 9, 2010) (“In common fund cases, the trend increasingly favors the calculation of a fee award by use of the percentage of the fund (POF) method.”). The First Circuit has found that utilizing the percentage of the fund method offers distinctive advantages: (1) it is less burdensome to administer; (2) it reduces the possibility of collateral disputes; (3) it enhances the efficiency throughout the litigation; (4) it is less taxing on judicial resources; and (5) it better approximates the workings of the marketplace. In re Thirteen Appeals Arising out of the San Juan Dupont Plaza Hotel Fire Litig., 56 F.3d 295, 307 (1st Cir. 1995). Courts applying this method consider near-identical considerations as the lodestar factors: “(1) the size of the fund and the number of persons benefitted; (2) the skill, experience, and efficiency of the attorneys involved; (3) the complexity and duration of the litigation; (4) the risks of the litigation; (5) the amount of time devoted to the case by counsel; (6) awards in similar cases; and (7) public policy considerations.” In re Neurontin Mktg. & Sales Practices Litig., 58 F. Supp. 3d 167, 170 (D. Mass. 2014) (citing In re Lupron Mktg. & Sales Practices Litig., 2005 WL 2006833, at *3 (D. Mass. Aug. 17, 2005), citing Goldberger v. Integrated Res., Inc., 209 F.3d 43, 50 (2d Cir.2000); Third Circuit Task Force, Court Awarded Attorneys Fees, 108 F.R.D. 237, 255–56 (1985)).

Given the overlapping qualitative considerations between the lodestar and percentage of the funds methods, courts will often reach the same result regardless of which method is used. For instance, in Commonwealth Care All. v. Astrazeneca Pharm. L.P., another Chapter 93A class action, the court awarded counsel $6 million in attorney’s fees out of a $20 million common fund where class counsel asked that court to “apply a multiplier of 2” to award it “30 percent of the common fund.” 2013 WL 6268236, at *2 (Mass. Super. Aug. 5, 2013). In approving the award, the court considered the result achieved by class counsel and the risks counsel undertook taking the case on a contingency basis, acknowledged that “Massachusetts state courts follow the lodestar approach,” but was nonetheless “persuaded that these additional considerations [the above qualitative factors] warrant the multiplier or upward adjustment of the lodestar amount.” Id. & at n.3 (emphasis supplied). Likewise, in Schiefer v. Bain Capital, LP, the plaintiff requested an attorney's fee award in the amount of one-third of the $3.5 million common fund and "cited a number of cases in which federal courts have approved fee awards based on a percentage of the total settlement." 2018 WL 6184638, at *2 (Mass. Super. Oct. 3, 2018). While the court noted that "the standard that applies in state court cases remains the lodestar approach" and adopted that approach, it also applied qualitative factors such as the benefits of the settlement to the class and the fact that "the entire fund here will be distributed to class members," and as a result of those factors applied a multiplier to the lodestar and awarded $1.224 million in fees, or approximately 35% of the common fund. See id., at *1-2. Thus, while the Schiefer court opted to apply the lodestar method rather than the percentage of the fund, in the end it awarded the same amount of fees they had requested under the percentage of the fund method.

In this case, the Settlement Agreement here creates a common fund of $1,563,720.00. Class Counsel requests an award of attorneys' fees in the amount of $521,240 for their efforts on behalf of the class, which can be calculated as either one-third of the settlement fund, or under the lodestar method with a multiplier of 1.64.

II. ONE-THIRD OF THE SETTLEMENT FUND IN FEES AND EXPENSES IS REASONABLE ON ITS FACE

As an initial matter, one-third of the settlement fund in a common fund class action is reasonable on its face and Massachusetts courts and others in the First Circuit routinely award a one-third fee. See Roberts, 2016 WL 8677312, at *13 ("a one-third fee award, while certainly generous, is not unreasonable in light of the positive results obtained for class members, and the actual time and efforts expended by Class Counsel in this case."); Gordan v. Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co., 2016 WL 11272044, at *2 (D. Mass. Nov. 3, 2016) ("the one-third fee requested here is fair and reasonable"); In re StockerYale, Inc. Sec. Litig., 2007 WL 4589772, at *6 (D.N.H. Dec. 18, 2007) (awarding fees in the amount of 33% of settlement fund); McCormick v. Festiva Dev.

Grp., LLC, 2011 WL 2457883, at *1 (D. Me. June 20, 2011) (awarding fees in the amount of one third of settlement fund); Applegate v. Formed Fiber Techs., LLC, 2013 WL 6162596, at *1 (D. Me. Nov. 21, 2013) (same); Bennett v. Roark Capital Grp., Inc., 2011 WL 1703447, at *2 (D. Me. May 4, 2011) (same); see also Medoff v. CVS Caremark Corp., 2016 WL 632238, at *9 (D.R.I. Feb. 17, 2016) (awarding 30% of common fund and observing that “as several courts have concluded, 30% is not out of proportion with recovery percentages in large class action litigations.”).

“In most instances, [the determination] will involve a sliding scale dependent upon the ultimate recovery, the expectation being that, absent unusual circumstances, the percentage will decrease as the size of the fund increases.” In re Cendant Corp. PRIDES Litig., 243 F.3d 722, 736 (3d Cir. 2001); see also In re Relafen Antitrust Litig., 231 F.R.D. 52, 81 (D. Mass. 2005) (“There are also several cases that suggest that the standard percentage is generally lower as the common fund increases.”); Conley v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 222 B.R. 181, 187 (D. Mass. 1998). It is the “mega funds,” those in excess of $50 million, which tend to be at the low end of this sliding scale. Conley v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 222 B.R. 181, 188 (D. Mass. 1998) (“District courts have awarded fees of 4 to 16 percent as the so-called megafund baseline.”); In re Rent-Way Sec. Litig., 305 F. Supp. 2d 491, 513 (W.D. Pa. 2003) (citing cases) (awarding 25% of $25 million common fund).

At $1,563,720.00 (far less than a megafund thereby not implicating concerns regarding windfalls to class counsel) the size of the fund here does not justify less than one-third. See In re Sterling Fin. Corp. Sec. Class Action, 2009 WL 2914363, at *4 (E.D. Pa. Sept. 10, 2009) (approving 30% in fees of common fund of $10.25 million and stating “the settlement fund is not so large as to support a percentage smaller than thirty percent”) (emphasis supplied). Thus, the fee and expense request here is reasonable on its face.

III. THE LODESTAR METHOD SUPPORTS THE REQUESTED FEE AWARD

The requested attorneys’ fees and expenses are also reasonable under the lodestar method. Class Counsel’s lodestar in this action is $316,170 which is based on 557.5 attorney and professional staff hours. (Lemberg Decl. ¶ 13):

Professional	Rate	Hours	Lodestar
Sergei Lemberg, Esq.	$700	207.4	$145,180
Stephen Taylor, Esq.	$650	161.2	$104,780
Josh Markovits, Esq.	$400	154.9	$61,960
Paralegal Time	$125	34	$4,250
		Total: 557.5	$316,170

These rates are fully supported by the skill and experience of Plaintiff’s counsel and are well within the market rate for their services. (Lemberg Decl. ¶¶ 3-8, 14-17; Taylor Decl. ¶¶ 2-5). The lodestar does not include additional work associated with final approval and Class Counsel’s oversight of the claims resolution process. (Lemberg Decl. ¶ 12).

As noted, multipliers of lodestar amounts are “an accepted means of enhancing a lodestar appropriately to reflect, for example, the scale of the results achieved by prevailing counsel or the risks counsel took in pursuing contingent fees.” In re Volkswagen & Audi Warranty Extension Litig., 89 F. Supp. 3d 155, 165 (D. Mass. 2015) (collecting cases); New England Carpenters Health Benefits Fund v. First Databank, Inc., 2009 WL 2408560, at *2 (D. Mass. Aug. 3, 2009) (applying multiplier of about 8.3); In re AMICAS, Inc. S’holder Litig., 2010 WL 5557444, at *4 (Mass. Super. Dec. 6, 2010), (court approved lodestar multiplier of 5); Roberts, 2016 WL 8677312, at *13 (“Multipliers of 2 and more have been found reasonable in common fund cases”); Conley v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 222 B.R. 181, 182 (D.Mass.1998) (approving attorneys’ fees that would constitute a lodestar multiplier of 8.9). Consideration of the below qualitative factors weigh strongly in favor of approving the requested fees and expenses and a multiplier of 1.64.

a. THE NATURE OF THE CASE AND THE ISSUES PRESENTED

This case involves Transworld’s allegedly unlawful collection practices. But for the efforts of Class Counsel there would be no remedy for any class member. The nature of this case and the issues presented, including Transworld’s significant defenses to liability and class certification, more than support the requested fee award.

Specifically, this case involves M.G.L. c. 93A, the Massachusetts Consumer Protection Law, which prohibits “[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce.” M.G.L. c. 93A, § 2(a). Deceptive acts or practices include conduct in contravention of the Massachusetts Debt Collection Regulations. Those regulations were amended in 2012 to make it “an unfair or deceptive act or practice for a creditor to contact a debtor . . . [by] i]nitiating a communication with any debtor via telephone, either in person or via text messaging or recorded audio message, in excess of two such communications in each seven-day period to either the debtor's residence, cellular telephone, or other telephone number provided by the debtor as his or her personal telephone number” Armata v. Target Corp., 480 Mass. 14, 17-18 (2018) (quoting 940 C.M.R. 7.04(1)(f)) (emphasis in original).

Class Counsels’ investigation and discovery showed Transworld was attempting to collect debt from Plaintiff and others and at times called more than two times within a seven-day period to collect payment. Moreover, Class Counsel believes that the evidence supported certification of a class under the Chapter 93A: the size of the class is in the thousands; there are questions of law and fact common to all members of the class (including whether the practice of calling Massachusetts consumers more than twice within a seven-day period regarding delinquent debt violates 940 C.M.R. 7.04(1)(f) and M.G.L. c. 93A, § 2, and the validity of Transworld’ defenses); Plaintiff is typical of the class as Transworld placed more than two calls in a seven-day period to Plaintiff and the class regarding debts and Plaintiff and the class were damaged in the same way based on this alleged uniform conduct; and Plaintiff and his counsel were adequate representatives.

However, Transworld hotly disputed Plaintiff's claims and the sufficiency of class adjudication. For example, in January 2019, Transworld moved to compel arbitration arguing Plaintiff was bound by an agreement with Enterprise Car Rental (the original creditor) which required Plaintiff to arbitrate his claims with Transworld as Enterprise's agent. Plaintiff opposed the motion, arguing that Transworld, a non-signatory to the arbitration agreement, could not enforce the clause nor could it use any contractual doctrines to enforce the arbitration clause as a successor party. The motion to compel arbitration was subsequently denied and Transworld appealed. On September 9, 2019, the SJC took the that appeal sua sponte from the appellate division and, after hearing complete and voluminous briefing from both sides, denied the appeal and upheld the Superior Court's order denying the motion. Landry v. Transworld Sys. Inc., 485 Mass. 334, 149 N.E.3d 781 (2020).¹

Defendant also moved for summary judgment on the grounds that it was not a "creditor" as the term is defined under the Debt Collection Regulations, 940 C.M.R. 7.03², and, therefore, the regulation's restrictions concerning creditor phone calls did not apply to Transworld. Plaintiff opposed the motion, argued that Transworld fell well within the definition as a creditor because it was Enterprise's agent (an argument Transworld had made repeatedly when moving to compel arbitration), and otherwise argued that the question was premature as discovery was needed on the issue. The Court denied the motion for summary judgment but did so without prejudice to Transworld raising the issue again at later phases of the case.

² 940 C.M.R. 7.03 defines "creditor" as "any person and his or her agents, servants, employees, or attorneys engaged in collecting a debt owed or alleged to be owed to him or her by a debtor."

Further, Transworld opposed class certification on several grounds in discovery, through conferrals and at the mediation. Specifically, Transworld argued that individualized inquiries into the calls to class members would defeat commonality and that typicality and adequacy could not be met because Plaintiff purportedly did not have a viable claim.

Plaintiff does not believe any of these arguments would defeat class certification, or that whether the existence of proposed individual issues would predominate over common issues is even relevant to the analysis under Chapter 93A, but here too Transworld's positions establishes that the case was complex and involved many discrete factual and legal issues which potentially could have doomed Plaintiff's claim, in addition to complicated issues concerning the interpretation of Defendant's business records and how damages can be calculated under Chapter 93A.

The complexity and breadth of the above issues amply supports the requested award, particularly considering the skillful manner in which Class Counsel handled those issues and brought the case to a successful resolution on behalf of the Settlement Class.

b. THE TIME AND LABOR REQUIRED

Class Counsel has litigated this case for approximately five years and invested significant time and effort. (Lemberg Decl. ¶¶ 9-12).

Before initiating this action, Class Counsel investigated the facts and law relating to Plaintiff's claims. On September 26, 2018, Plaintiff filed his class action against Transworld. On December 4, 2018, Transworld moved to compel arbitration. As noted above, resolution of the arbitration question took years and substantial effort through the final decision in Plaintiff's favor at the SJC. Similarly, Defendant moved for and Plaintiff opposed Defendant's various motions for summary judgment and/or to stay this action pending Defendant's various appeals.

Throughout that process Plaintiff pushed discovery. Plaintiff drafted and served Rule 33 & 34 discovery requests. Plaintiff moved to compel discovery responses where Plaintiff believed the responses were deficient. Plaintiff took corporate and individual depositions, subpoenaed third parties for testimony including Enterprise-Rent-A-Car, and Plaintiff sat for a deposition himself. Plaintiff also reviewed the extensive document production by Transworld including the class data where Plaintiff consulted with a data expert in analyzing the same. Finally, Plaintiff discovered the Assurance of Discontinuance between Transworld and the Massachusetts Attorney General's office and moved to compel documents and testimony regarding the same. That motion was sub judice at the time of settlement.

Ultimately, the Parties agreed to privately mediate their dispute and sought a stay of proceedings for that purpose. On May 26, 2022, and September 16, 2022, Plaintiff's counsel attended an all-day mediation session before the Honorable Stephen Neel (Ret.). Plaintiff provided Judge Neel with a detailed mediation brief addressing all aspects of this case: claims in chief, defenses, class certification and the defenses or objections thereto, alleged damages, and settlement. The mediation was adversarial and conducted at arm's-length and resulted in agreement to a settlement. In addition, Class Counsel will devote further time and effort appearing at the final approval hearing, responding to ongoing inquiries from Class Members going forward, addressing any disputes relating to submitted claims, and monitoring claims processing and the distribution of settlement payments by the Settlement Administrator. (Lemberg Decl. ¶ 12).

Class Counsel has expended significant efforts and resources prosecuting this action on behalf of Plaintiff and the Class. These combined efforts, taken with the risk of no recovery to counsel whatsoever and against highly competent defense counsel, amply support the requested award in this case, and demonstrate that the fees and expenses requested here have been well earned.

c. THE AMOUNT OF DAMAGES INVOLVED AND THE RESULT OBTAINED

The size of the fund here and the number of persons benefited under the settlement establish that Class Counsel achieved an excellent result in light of the available damages.

First, the fund of $1,563,720 resolves approximately 39,093 potential claims for violations of the Regulation and Chapter 93A owing to Transworld' alleged practice of calling consumers in excess of the permitted amount. Absent a showing of actual provable damages owing to excess phone calls, class members may be entitled to statutory damages ($25 dollars for their claims, recovery up to $50 to $75 dollars if they can establish the violations were "willful or knowing," and the potential to recover per violation rather than per claim which can increase the minimum statutory award greatly). Mass. Gen. Laws c. 93A, § 9(3). The fund here represents, in total, approximately $40 per each class member. It is not possible to know how much each claiming member will receive until the claims process is complete. However, assuming a 5% claims rate, Class Members who submit Valid Claim Forms will recover approximately $500 each; a 10% claims rate would result in a $301 recovery per claiming Class Member; and an even higher rate of 20% would result in claiming Class Members receiving $150 each. These figures demonstrate that at any rate, the result here is very favorable to class members.

Further, the results obtained are very significant considering the significant hurdles to establishing liability and certifying the class given Transworld' defenses. The risks of continued litigation are compounded by the fact that for any plaintiff's firm to bring a class action against a substantial company requires the commitment of time and resources in the face of significant risks of loss and/or delay. Firms of small size face even greater risks in litigating large class actions with no guarantee of payment. Boyd v. Bank of Am. Corp., 2014 WL 6473804, at *10 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 18, 2014) (finding heightened risk of small firm representation should be rewarded with larger percentage fee for good result); see also Pennsylvania v. Delaware Valley Citizens' Council for Clean Air, 483 U.S. 711, 750 (1987) (Delaware Valley II) (plurality opinion) (“[C]ontingent litigation may pose greater risks to a small firm or a solo practitioner because the risk of nonpayment may not be offset so easily by the presence of paying work. . . .”); Davis v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 6 F.3d 367, 382 (6th Cir. 1993) (“[T]he maintenance of comparatively large pieces of litigation prevents small firms from diversifying risk by taking on additional clients.”).

This is a pure contingent fee case, which Class Counsel took on with risk concerning not only the result of the case, but also how much time and money would need to be invested to get a result against a well-funded defendant represented by very able counsel. Because hours and resources are limited, the attorneys involved in this case were required to defer or decline other work in order to properly prosecute this case. Had the case been lost, they would have received no compensation whatsoever for their significant investment of time and effort over the years. Accordingly, this factor also weighs in favor of the requested award.

d. THE EXPERIENCE, REPUTATION, AND ABILITY OF THE ATTORNEYS

The experience, reputation and ability of the attorneys involved also weighs in favor of the requested fees and expenses. Class Counsel are experienced and skilled consumer protection and class action litigators. (Lemberg Decl. ¶¶ 4-5, 16; Taylor Decl. ¶ 5). They have successfully represented classes in both contested and settled proceedings. See, e.g., Carlson v. Target Enter.,

Inc., 2020 WL 1332839 (D. Mass. Mar. 23, 2020) (final approval of class action); Oberther v. Midland Credit Management, Doc. No. 90, 14-cv-30014 (D. Mass. July 13, 2016) (Fair Debt Collection Practice Act (“FDCPA”) class action settlement); Johnson v. Comodo Grp., Inc., 2020 WL 525898, at *1 (D.N.J. Jan. 31, 2020) (contested class certification decision in TCPA action); Lavigne v. First Cmty. Bancshares, Inc., 2018 WL 2694457, at *5 (D.N.M. June 5, 2018) (“the Court concludes that Lemberg Law, LLC (Stephen Taylor) should be appointed as class counsel.”) (contested class certification decision in TCPA action); Duchene v. Westlake Servs., LLC, 2016 WL 6916734 (W.D. Pa. July 14, 2016) (final approval of class settlement of $10MM common fund in TCPA action); Seekamp v. It’s Huge, Inc., 2012 WL 860364 (N.D.N.Y. Mar. 13, 2012) (certifying auto fraud class action); Zimmerman v. Portfolio Recovery Assoc., LLC, 276 F.R.D. 174 (S.D.N.Y. 2011) (certifying FDCPA class action).

Class Counsel brought their experience and skill to bear to efficiently investigate, litigate, settle this case, conduct discovery, and oversee the administration of the settlement process. Their skill with Chapter 93A and class action litigation was critical in efficiently identifying the key issues, negotiating the settlement for the class and demonstrates the reasonableness of the one-third fee and the lodestar multiplier.

e. THE AMOUNTS OF AWARDS IN SIMILAR CASES

Awards in similar cases support the requested fee. Indeed, the fee requested in this case is in accord with awards in other class action cases involving similar consumer protections statutes, including the Telephone Consumer Protection Act (“TCPA”), which like the Massachusetts Debt Collection Regulations, seeks to protect consumers from harassing phone calls. See, e.g., Landsman & Funk, P.C. v. Skinder-Strauss Assocs., 639 F. App’x 880 (3d Cir. 2016) (affirming award of one-third of a reversionary settlement fund in TCPA class action); Vandervort v Balboa Capital Corp., 8 F. Supp. 3d 1200, 1210 (C.D. Cal. 2014) (fee of one-third awarded in TCPA case); Bridgeview Health Care Ctr., Ltd. v. Jerryclark, 2015 WL 4498741, at *2 (N.D. Ill. July 23, 2015) (awarding one-third of common fund in TCPA class action); Hageman v. AT & T Mobility LLC, 2015 WL 9855925, at *4 (D. Mont. Feb. 11, 2015) (approving fee award of “$15 million, or one-third of the common fund recovery” in TCPA class action settlement against AT&T); Saf-T-Gard Int’l, Inc. v. Seiko Corp. of Am., No. 09 C 0776 (N.D. Ill. Jan. 14, 2011) (awarding one-third of common fund in multimillion dollar TCPA class action); Vandervort v. Balboa Capital Corp., 8 F. Supp. 3d 1200, 1210 (C.D. Cal. 2014) (“Accordingly, the Court awards attorney’s fees and costs in the amount of $1.1 million, or 33% of the $3.3 million settlement fund ceiling amount.”).

A one-third fee is also reasonable in light of other percentage of the fund cases in the First Circuit and, indeed, class cases under Chapter 93A. See Roberts v. TJX Companies, Inc., 2016 WL 8677312, at *11 (D. Mass. Sept. 30, 2016) (Burroughs, J.) (approving 1/3 of a $4.75MM common fund in fees even where a full 39% of the total fund would revert back to the defendant); In re Relafen Antitrust Litig., 231 F.R.D. 52, 85–89 (D. Mass. 2005) (approving 33 1/3% fee as a percentage of the fund); Commonwealth Care All. v. Astrazeneca Pharm. L.P., 2013 WL 6268236, at *1 & n.3 (Mass. Super. Aug. 5, 2013) (awarding 30% of the fund in fees in Chapter 93A class action).

In light of the foregoing, the fee and expense request here is largely in-line with awards in similar cases. Thus, this factor weighs in support of the requested award.

f. PUBLIC POLICY CONSIDERATIONS

The Defendant was allegedly violating Massachusetts law and violating the rights of citizens of the Commonwealth for years. But for the efforts of Class Counsel, taken at expenditure of time, resources and with no promise of remuneration, class members would have received no resolution to their alleged claims.

Further, the Massachusetts legislature encourages litigants to pursue Chapter 93A claims like these via class actions. See M.G.L. c. 93A § 9(2) (“Any persons entitled to bring such action may, if the use or employment of the unfair or deceptive act or practice has caused similar injury to numerous other persons similarly situated and if the court finds in a preliminary hearing that he adequately and fairly represents such other persons, bring the action on behalf of himself and such other similarly injured and situated person”). Chapter 93A is a broad consumer protection statute which “encompasses claims where a plaintiff’s damages are de minimis” Ciardi v. F. Hoffmann-La Roche, Ltd., 436 Mass. 53, 60 n.14 (2002); see also Murphy v. Charlestown Sav. Bank, 380 Mass. 738, 743, 405 N.E.2d 954, 957 (1980) (“G.L. c. 93A deserves broad construction.”). And the regulation at issue here – the Massachusetts Debt Collection Regulations – was enacted to “prevent[] creditors from harassing, oppressing, or abusing debtors.” Armata, 480 Mass. at 15, 99 N.E.3d at 790; see also Watkins v. Glenn Assocs., Inc., 2016 WL 3224784, at *2 (Mass. Super. June 10, 2016) (“Taken as a whole, the Guidance and the state regulation evidence a clear intent by the Attorney General to limit the pressure that debt collectors may exert upon a person who simply owes a debt, to prevent a creditor from intruding upon a debtor’s personal life, and to protect them from harassment, oppression, and abuse.”). Thus, this class action serves important public policy of ensuring that consumers’ rights be protected even where individual damages are minimal. So too, the requested fee here serves an important public policy of ensuring that consumer claims under the regulation and Chapter 93A can be pursued by experienced and skilled counsel.

g. COSTS ARE RECOVERABLE AND REASONABLE

“Where a party ‘has, at his or her own expense, been successful in creating, preserving or enlarging a fund in which other parties have a rightful share,’ a court may order the payment of attorneys’ fees and expenses out of the fund as part of a damages award.” In re AMICAS, Inc. S’holder Litig., 2010 WL 5557444, at *2 (Mass. Super. Dec. 6, 2010) (quoting Coggins v. New England Patriots Football Club, Inc., 406 Mass. 666, 669 (1990). In addition to fees, Class Counsel seeks recovery of their hard costs borne on behalf of the class, for its benefit, and which were necessary to secure the class fund. Expenses total $24,767.71 and consist of costs paid for (1) filing and service charges; (2) pro hac vice charges; (3) travel expenses; (4) court reporter and transcription charges; and (5) the entire cost of the mediation before Judge Neel at JAMS. (Lemberg Decl. ¶¶ 18-21; Lemberg Decl. Ex. A).

h. THE COURT SHOULD APPROVE THE INCENTIVE AWARD TO PHILIP LANDRY FOR HIS EFFORTS ON BEHALF OF THE CLASS

Class Counsel requests that the Court approve the payment of an incentive award for Plaintiff Philip Landry in the amount of $10,000.00.

An incentive award for bringing and litigating this case on behalf of the class is permissible and promotes a public policy of encouraging individuals to undertake the responsibility of representative lawsuits. Manual for Complex Litigation, § 21.62 n.971 (4th ed. 2004); In re Lupron Mktg. & Sales Practices Litig., 221.7 F.R.D. 75, 98 (D. Mass. 2005). Courts routinely approve incentive awards to compensate named plaintiffs for the services they provided and the risks they incurred during the course of the class action litigation. In re Puerto Rican Cabotage Antitrust Litig., 815 F. Supp. 2d 448, 468 (D.P.R. 2011); In re Lupron Mktg. & Sales Practices Litig., 2005 WL 2006833, at *7 (D. Mass. Aug. 17, 2005).

Plaintiff has been intimately involved with this case since its inception. He assisted in our investigation, has provided us critical information, sat for his own deposition and has been in contact with and aided his counsel throughout the case. (Taylor Decl. ¶ 7). Mr. Landry also declined early individual settlement offers which would have benefited him but left the class with nothing. Id. But for his efforts, and his desire and willingness to stick with this case and get relief for others in addition to himself, the Settlement Class here would have received nothing. An Incentive Award of $10,000.00 to Plaintiff is reasonable and fair to Plaintiff for his efforts on behalf of the class and is within the range of awards approved in other class actions. See, e.g., Gordan v. Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co., 2016 WL 11272044, at *3 (D. Mass. Nov. 3, 2016) (approving award of $20,000 to each named plaintiff).

CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above, Plaintiff and Class Counsel respectfully request that the Court grant this motion and (1) award attorneys' fees and expenses to Class Counsel in the amount of $546,007.71 and (2) award $10,000.00 as an incentive award to Plaintiff for his role in representing the class.

I have been a guest speaker at the Professional Association for Customer Engagement conference in 2014 and the National Debt Collection Forum in 2016. OVERVIEW OF EFFORTS ON BEHALF OF PLAINTIFF AND THE CLASS

9. We have litigated this case on behalf of Mr. Landry and the proposed class since the summer of 2018.

10. This matter required Class Counsel to spend substantial time on this litigation that could have been spent on other matters. My firm has not been paid anything for our work on this case was filed.

11. To provide the Court with an overview of the work done by Lemberg Law in this case, I divide my firm's work into specific phases or tasks that track the progress of the case. Thus, my firm:

- 1) Investigated the facts and law relating to Plaintiff's claims before initiating any action;
- 2) Drafted a well-pleaded Complaint and filed the same;
- 3) Analyzed Defendant's response and defenses;
- 4) Devised strategies to overcome Defendant's defenses to the litigation including its arguments on identifying class members, arguments against class certification and against liability;

- 5) Served discovery requests pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. 33 & 34 concerning class, merits and damages elements;
- 6) Successfully opposed Defendant's January 15, 2019, motion to compel arbitration;
- 7) Successfully opposed Defendant's appeal of the order denying the motion to compel arbitration up through the Supreme Judicial Court including at oral arguments;
- 8) Opposed Defendant's motion for summary judgment;
- 9) Conferred with Defendant regarding its discovery responses;
- 10) Successfully moved to compel discovery responses including the production of class and merits information and documents;
- 11) Reviewed hundreds of pages of documents and extensive class data including conferral with an expert consultant regarding class data;
- 12) Answered written discovery requests directed at the Plaintiff;
- 13) Defended the Plaintiff's deposition;
- 14) Deposed Defendant's corporate representative and several employees;
- 15) Subpoenaed third parties, including Enterprise-Rent-A-Car for testimony;
- 16) Discovered the existence of an Assurance of Discontinuance between Transworld and the Massachusetts Attorney General's office and moved to compel documents and testimony regarding the same;
- 17) Prepared settlement briefing for mediation sessions before the Hon. Stephen Neel (Ret.) and participated in two all-day sessions before Judge Neel;
- 18) Negotiated the details of a comprehensive Settlement Agreement;
- 19) Prepared the exhibits to the Settlement Agreement (including the Class Notice, Claim Form, and proposed Preliminary Approval Order);
- 20) Prepared a motion for preliminary approval of the Settlement;

- 21) Regularly communicated with the Claims Administrator and monitored the notice program and class response;
- 22) Reviewed the language and content of the settlement website;
- 23) Communicated with the named Plaintiff throughout the litigation; and
- 24) Prepared the present motion.

12. Additionally, I anticipate a significant amount of work and hours will be expended after the filing of the fee application related to final approval and oversight of the administrator. We will also continue to assist class members with individual inquiries, will oversee the claims resolution process, and Class Counsel will help resolve Class member challenges to the result of their claims submissions. Judging by previous experiences, these responsibilities will require hundreds of hours of work by Class Counsel over the coming months.

CLASS COUNSEL’S LODESTAR

13. Our lodestar in this matter is $316,170 representing 557.5 hours expended by three firm attorneys and paralegal staff. The following attorneys contributed significant time towards this case and seek compensation at the following rates.

Professional	Rate	Hours	Lodestar
Sergei Lemberg, Esq.	$700	207.4	$145,180
Stephen Taylor, Esq.	$650	161.2	$104,780
Josh Markovits, Esq.	$400	154.9	$61,960
Paralegal Time	$125	34	$4,250
		Total: 557.5	$316,170

14. My billing rate in this matter is $700 per hour which is a reasonable rate given my experience and expertise in consumer rights class action litigation. In addition, Mr. Taylor’s billing rate is $600 per hour which is supported by his skill and experience as set forth in his declaration.

15. Further, we are seeking compensation for Mr. Josh Markovits who bills at $400 per hour.

16. Mr. Markovits is an associate at Lemberg Law with a focus on consumer protection class actions. Mr. Markovits received his J.D., cum laude, from Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law in 2015 and is admitted to practice in New York. Mr. Markovits is also admitted to practice before the Southern, Eastern and Western Districts of New York, the Northern District of Illinois, and the District of Colorado. During law school, Mr. Markovits served as a legal intern in the chambers of both a federal court and a New York Supreme Court judge. He also served as a legal intern in the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission's Division of Enforcement. He has been approved as class counsel in consumer protection class actions. See Pollard v. Windham Professionals, Inc., No. 1978CV00033 (Mass. Super., Oct. 18, 2021) (final approval of class action settlement for alleged violations of Chapter 93A and 940 C.M.R. § 7.04(1)(f)); Virgne v. C.R. England, Inc., No. 1:19-cv-02011-SEB-MDJ (S.D. Ind. Jan. 13, 2021) (ECF No. 124) (final approval of class action settlement in TCPA action).

17. These rates, (between $700 and $400 for attorneys and $125 for paralegal staff) are within the range of rates charged by attorneys with similar qualifications in complex class action litigation. For instance, in Davis v. Footbridge Eng'g Servs., LLC, the Honorable Judge Nancy Gertner set reasonable hourly rates for plaintiff's counsel in a federal Fair Labor Standards Act action. 2011 WL 3678928 (D. Mass. Aug. 22, 2011). Class counsel came from mid-sized firms with national practice with experience in litigating a variety of national class actions. Id., 2011 WL 3678928, at *3-4. The Court – over a decade ago – approved rates for partners of $565 to $650 per hour, for associates at rates of $350 to $425 per hour and for paralegal staff at $140 to $210 per hour. Id. Moreover, the court in Davis noted that while plaintiff's counsel were not from large firms, “that fact is not dispositive,” explaining that “[w]hile higher rates at the large firms may be justified by their higher overhead, the overhead and transaction costs of a class action litigation practice, particularly a national practice, is similarly high.” Id. at *4. Other courts have approved similar rates (see, e.g., Brenner v. J.C. Penney Co., 2013 WL 6865667, at *6 (D. Mass. Dec. 26, 2013) (approving hourly rates of up to $600 for class counsel in class action alleging defendant violated Massachusetts consumer protection statute by unlawfully gathering and using customer zip codes in connection with credit card purchases); Commonwealth Care All. v. Astrazeneca Pharm. L.P., 2013 WL 6268236, at *1 (Mass. Super. Aug. 5, 2013) (approving hourly rate of up to $590 for class counsel in Chapter 93A case) and higher (Tuli v. Brigham & Women's Hosp., Inc. 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 129768 at *5–7 (D. Mass. June 8, 2009) (approving rate for partners of $600 to $700); Smith v. City of Bos., 496 F. Supp. 3d 590, 599 (D. Mass. 2020) (approving rates of $600-$700).

EXPENSES

18. Lemberg Law has incurred or agreed to cover court costs, filing fees, deposition fees and mediation fees in connection with this action.

19. As reflected in the expense reports attached hereto as Exhibit A, the total costs incurred to date are $24,767.71. 2. I graduated from Boston College in 2003, from Tulane University School of Law in 2007, I am a former judicial clerk and joined Lemberg Law in 2009.
